

2022 State of the City

This past week we were able to hear Mayor Bickerstaff present the 2022 State of the City! We appreciate the work that the Sachse Chamber of Commerce put into this annual event. Manny's Uptown served an amazing lunch and we couldn't have done it without our sponsor Linebarger.

Thank you to Mayor Margolis with the City of Rowlett and Mayor Porter with the City of Wylie for joining us. We enjoyed hearing about all the great things you are accomplishing in your community.

Did You Know One Quart of Used Motor Oil Washed Down a Storm Drain Pollutes Upto 250,000 Gallons of Water?

While the health of streams, lakes, and aquatic life is impacted by heavy rains and floods, people are the heaviest polluters of our waterways. Washing oils, gas, pesticides, fertilizers, and other toxins into stormwater collection systems puts our drinking water supplies at risk, and increases the time and costs required to monitor and effectively treat water with these pollutants.

Stormwater runoff is generated by precipitation that flows from rooftops, pavement, lawns, and bare soil. As stormwater runoff moves across these surfaces, it can pick up and transport pollutants to storm drains, which are connected to streams, rivers, and lakes. These pollutants can cause a number of water quality issues, including toxic algal blooms, fish kills, floating trash and debris, and higher drinking water treatment costs. Here are things you can do to help prevent stormwater pollution at home:

Managing Stormwater at Home

Pet Waste

Bag and trash or flush it down the toilet.

Lawn Care

Mulch grass clippings and leaves, leave on lawn, or compost.

Debris

Sweep dirt into the lawn, pick-up debris and put in trash.

Vehicle Maintenance

Pour waste oil into unbreakable container, seal, label, and recycle. Wash car on the lawn or at a commercial car wash.

Household Chemicals

Target fertilizers and pesticides to the lawn & garden. Take excess chemicals to household hazardous waste facility.

Emergency Management Analyst

"Early in my career, I leaned towards IT type work, but after attending Collin College Fire Academy night school in 2005, I fell in love with the fire service. Since then, I have continued training while having the opportunity to work with many great mentors to perform a wide variety of roles broadening my emergency services horizon.

After completing my undergrad with a double major in fire science and occupational safety and health, I realized the ultimate importance of situational awareness, planning, and preparation in relation to mitigating incidents.

I am thrilled to continue my career with Sachse in this new role and look forward to enhancing the emergency management procedures already in place. When not being a dad, working, or doing classwork, you'll usually find me fishing, camping, hunting, or spending time at the lake."
